

John,

Nice story (when I came in). The students were definitely paying attention. I think I remember you saying that you like to pull some history in.

Great attendance for an 8:00am class + I noticed that your enrollment is high. Good job.

Your style is more of a discussion than lecturing at the student. Very effective. Students are clearly engaged. I hope this happens on non-observation days too.

Nice example of the car, they can easily relate.

Nice example of the sprinter. It really emphasizes the data on both sides of the point of interest. Altho, if I'm not mistaken, I think the record for 100m is about 10sec. HA HA. But there was a lot of value to your example.

The nice thing about this example is that students who have seen calculus are probably interested even tho they know where this is headed.

Great
Job, impressed.
